Program

First we meet and eat – bring something for the potluck, then David Kiehn, film historian and curator of the Niles Essanay Silent Film Museum will brief us on the historical detective methods he used to uncover the mystery behind finding the exact date from a century ago that the famous San Francisco film A Trip Down Market Street was shot and exactly whodunit!

Then onto the second part of our double feature – Detective Drew is on the case and on the silver screen in our 100-seat Nickelodeon Theater!

This program is Free and open to the public!

Nancy Drew, Girl Reporter 1939, Warner Bros.) Bonita Granville stars in this 68 minute B-movie directed by William Clemens (he made features starring Perry Mason as well as four Nancy Drew films). Granville was the daughter of stage actors, making her film debut at the age of nine in Westward Passage (1933). Her big break was as Mary in the film adaptation of Lillian Hellman's The Children's Hour (renamed These Three). Granville was nominated for an Academy Award for Best Supporting Actress.

Come join us at the Edison Theater, which is also the home of the Niles Essanay Silent Film Museum 37417 Niles Blvd., Fremont, 94536
